FOREWORD

It is with pleasure and great satisfaction that we are able to present this genealogy of the HOCH family. Due to a number of reasons you will find it incomplete in some cases and in all probability there are errors. However, we desire at this time to thank all who have so willingly helped and encouraged us in this complicated work. Without this help, this compilation would have been impossible. In some cases we had to rely upon old Bibles, newspapers, Church, cemetery, and census records. We hope you will continue to use this booklet as a family record.

We are using the following key and abbreviations:

1. First generation from Frederick Hoch.
- 2.1 Second generation. 3.1 Third generation. 4.1 Fourth generation.
- 5.1 Fifth generation. 6.1 Sixth generation. The first number denotes the generation and the second number denotes the order of birth. Example 2.3 second generation, third child born.

Abbreviations: b. born — d. deceased — dau. daughter — m. married
unm. unmarried — r. residence.

SYLVIA HOCH FOSTER

Great Granddaughter

Castorland, New York

November, 1962

In a series of articles entitled "French Settlement In The Early Days" printed in THE BLACK RIVER DEMOCRAT newspaper the following excerpt is taken from the April 16, 1914 issue. In part it says:

"Frederick Hoch was born in Wurtemberg, Bavaria, March 1800. During the reign of Frederick Wilhelm III, King of Prussia, the future king, Frederick William IV was born October 15, 1795, reigning from 1840-1861.

Frederick Hoch served directly under the King in a military capacity and was frequently called upon to attend the Crown Prince, who was five years his elder.

At the expiration of his term of service in the army, young Frederick was retained as an employee on the King's estate.

In 1821 he married Julianna Wolf by whom he had fifteen children; six of these children died in infancy. The others were Johanna, Christina, Mariana Rosalie, Maria, Sebastian, Conrad, Catherine, Andrew, Waldpurga Paulina.

Johanna Hoch was married in Germany to Gustave Hoch of the same surname but was not related by blood.

Frederick Hoch resided later in Boll, Wurtemberg, and it was from this point he emigrated to America. The sale of their possessions netted them two heavy bags of gold. The party consisted of ten. The oldest daughter being twenty-one years of age. The youngest child four years old. After their arrival in New York the immigrant family proceeded to French Settlement where Mr. Hoch opened the first blacksmith. He shod oxen only as there were only a few horses in the settlement at that time."

While he was busy at his trade his wife with characteristic German thrift started a general store and kept a tavern where warm meals might be had at all hours, and light wines were sold, no other liquors being available. Mrs. Hoch was a woman of excellent business ability, going to Albany periodically for the purchase of stock for both store and tavern.

Frederick Hoch's reason for leaving the fatherland, where he had a pension in prospect, was that he did not want his sons to enter the army when they became of military age.
